More correspondence appears to-day from various parts of the country, and if only half the correspondents will come forward and exhibit the strange dogs they tell about, the Vegetarian Dog Owners' Association's Bench Show despatches and letters follow: DOG THAT MAKES A NOISE LIKE PLOUGH-NOSED HOG AND A HAR-

the Editor of The Evening World:
I am considerably surprised to see that none of your correspondents has yet mentioned the Holivian Squirrel-catcher. This is, to me, one of the most remarkable of Nature's imitative feats and rar outdoes anything yet related by naturalists concerning natural mimicry. The squirrel catcher lives in treetops. The Boltvian squirrels, unlike the variety familiar in the north, pass their lives on the ground. The squirrel catcher, when it is hungry, watches its chance, and when the squirrels are gamboling at the foot of its tree it

The squirrels come up to the apparently nutty object and discover their mistake too late. I was told of another variety that imitated grapefruit, but I can hardly credit this. JONAS D. GREAT NECK HILLS, March 24. L. Denison, the philosopher and tree barber of this place, has a Ploughbarber of this place, has a Plough-nosed Hog which he is using in doing his spring ploughing. The hog's snout is shaped like the share of a plough and is equally efficient in turn-ing over the ground. The hog is fol-lowed and driven by a Harrow Hound, which has long, scratchy nails to titiliate the earth. Mr. Denison experienced some difficulty in training his animals to their respective tasks, but now they appear the plough-nosed hog scurrying along with its nose buried, while close on its heels comes the harrow hound, with its peculiar feet and sharp, trritating bark. The barnow hound is not related to the banana hound, but differs from it considerably. Its the more corned it is the better the after an especially fatiguing day's work Mr. Denison gives his harrow hound a highball, but this is not often. as, like its master, the hound likes dear, cold well water better than anything else on earth. POTATO POODLES ARE HANDY

DOGS TO HAVE. (Special to The Evening World.)
METUCHEN, N. J., March 24.—Alphonse Du Fey, a truck farmer of this section, has several Potato Poodies, from the slopes of the Pyrenees where Du Fey comes from, his former home having been in the village of Fromage. Du Fey's Potato Poodles have enabled him to entirely disin his potato crop. The animals resemble ordinary poodles in general appearance, but their coats are the color of a spud boiled in its jacket. The Potato Poodles have long curiously shaped paws scoops would be the best way to describe them per-haps. With these they excavate the potatoes with astonishing rapidity and throw them neatly into When not working in the fields the Potato Poodles peel Murphles with the sharp edges of their paws for Mrs. Du Fey, who conducts a summer hotel. Du Fey says that he means to try to teach his Potato Poodles to do other household tasks.

A big supply of red blood corpuscies is what helps to make any man or woman have a healthy, pink complexion and cherry red lips. Resort to paliat and powder is totally unnecessary and, besides that, is harmful. Three-grain hypomuclane tablets, if used regularly for several months, seem to creats a greatly added number of millions to the red and white corpuscies of the blood, and not only improve the color, but add increased flesh to the thin and frail body. These tablets promote assimilation, absorption and digestion, and this splendid aid to nature's forces transforms the complexion and figure. They are prescribed by physicians, but being of a perfectly harmless character self-administration is being followed by many, who ontain them direct from any well-stocked apothecary shop.—Advt.

THE MANGO MUTT WILL PICK ANYTHING, EVEN A POCKET. To the Editor of The Erening World: Speaking of Banana Hounds, Geor-

The succulent mango grows fairly high up, and although these dogs were passionately fond of it, they had to content themselves for many eons by clambering up the scaly barked mango trees after the food.

But they are the graffe evolved a

But just as the giraffe evolved a long neck by the necessities of its existence so did the Mango Mutt, in course of time, develop a long tail with a hooked tip with which it dragged down as much of the fruit as it desired. When not picking mangoes for its own benefit my friend's dog was set to work harvesting oranges. When my friend, whose name is Ulyses G. Hardpan, came north on a visit to the old home in New England the Mango Mutt proved its ability to adapt Meet to new sur-roundings by helping the hired men pick apples. The Mango Mutt that Mr. Hardpan owned was bought by him from a tribe of wandering find Blas Indians. He informed me that on the upper reaches of the Magdaens River they were quite common. I should think it would pay some enterprising person to import and breed Mango Mutts, as they are do-BEN LANG.
